AN OVERVIEW OF THE OFFICE OF DEMOCRACY AND GOVERNANCE

USAID has identified “building sustainable democracies” as one of the Agency’s four overarching goals. In 1994, the Center for Democracy and Governance was established to serve as the Agency’s focal point for this critical area of sustainable development. During the recent reorganization, the Center was moved to the new Bureau for Democracy, Conflict, and Humanitarian Assistance and re-named the Office of Democracy and Governance. The primary purpose of the DG Office is to “promote the transition to and consolidation of democratic regimes throughout the world.” While the Agency’s reorganization may bring shifts in structure, the DG Office is currently organized in line with the Agency’s four democracy-related objectives: 1) strengthening rule of law and human rights, 2) more genuine and competitive political processes, 3) increased development of a politically active civil society, and 4) more transparent and accountable government institutions.

The Agency’s primary means of implementing DG programs in “presence” countries remains USAID Missions. The DG Office assists missions by providing technical support, where appropriate, and mission-friendly implementing mechanisms specifically targeted to DG programs. In well-defined circumstances, these mechanisms may also be used to work in “non-presence” countries. Overall, our support of missions is provided through an inter-linked approach that involves technical leadership, field support, and direct program management.

This User’s Guide describes how USAID Missions and bureaus can contact staff in the DG Office and access the technical services it provides. It presents an overview of the DG Office, information on staff and current team assignments, and useful descriptions and contact information on each implementing mechanism, which missions and regional bureaus may access.

The DG Office maintains a professional staff of democratic development experts. They are assigned to technical divisions that parallel the four DG objectives (rule of law, elections and political processes, civil society, and governance) and that cross-cut the four objectives (strategic planning and research and program and information). An experienced senior advisor heads each division, which provides strategic direction and manages a number of implementing mechanisms that extend its technical work.

Upon request, the strategic planning and research division assists missions by performing on-site DG sector and sub-sector assessments, assisting in the formulation of country-specific DG strategies, providing access to a common set of DG indicators, and supporting evaluations of DG programs. The division also manages mechanisms that cross-cut the democracy and governance portfolio and addresses program initiatives that cross-cut the Agency’s other major sectors.

The program and information division oversees the development and monitoring of DG Office programs, directs the development of program documentation, writes and publishes an array of print and electronic publications, researches and compiles DG-related technical information, coordinates substantive training for USAID DG officers, develops the DG Office’s web presences, and plans the annual DG partner’s conference.

I hope you find this User’s Guide to be both informative and useful.

Sincerely,

Jerry Hyman
Director, Office of Democracy and Governance
Bureau for Democracy, Conflict, and Humanitarian Assistance

SECTORAL AND SUB-SECTORAL DESIGNATIONS

The following section is presented as a quick reference to the broad array of program areas supported by the DG Office and covered by its implementing mechanisms. For a further elaboration of these program categories, please refer to the DG Office Strategic Plan, 1997-2002 or contact the DG Office directly. The DG Office Democracy and Governance: A Conceptual Framework also presents the strategic thinking underlying USAID's and the DG Office's worldwide involvement in these areas; ordering information is found on p. 46.

RULE OF LAW

The phrase "rule of law" embodies the basic principles of due process and equal protection under the law. In many states where fundamental laws have yet to be enacted or where democratic traditions are weak, existing laws may not be equitable or equitably applied and judicial independence is compromised. Civil and political rights, especially for women and minorities, are not truly guaranteed. Institutions have not yet developed the capacity to administer existing laws. The DG Office has distilled USAID experience in these areas and has developed mechanisms designed to improve

- Legal reform
- Administration of justice
- Citizens' access to justice
- Respect for human rights
- Constitutions and fundamental law

ELECTIONS AND POLITICAL PROCESSES

Free and fair elections reflecting the will of the people are essential to a functioning democracy. Elections offer political parties and civic groups an opportunity to mobilize and organize supporters and share alternative platforms with the public. They also serve to encourage political debate. Many countries, however, lack the institutional capacity to plan and implement such elections. The DG Office concentrates on seven elements essential to free and fair political processes:

- Impartial electoral frameworks
- Credible electoral administration
- Effective oversight of electoral processes
- Informed and active citizenries
- Representative and competitive multi-party systems
- Inclusion of women and other disadvantaged groups
- Effective transfers of political power

CIVIL SOCIETY

The hallmark of a democratic society is the ability of individuals to associate with like-minded individuals, express their views publicly, openly debate public policy, and petition their government. "Civil society" is the term which best describes the non-governmental, not-for-profit, independent nature of this segment of society. USAID is working to strengthen commitment to an independent and politically active civil society in developing countries. The DG Office works to enable civil society organizations and independent trade unions to advocate policy reforms by

- Encouraging the development of enabling environments
- Assisting groups to become financially viable and self-sufficient

GOVERNANCE

A key determinant of successful democratic consolidation is the ability of democratically elected governments to provide "good governance." While many citizens of developing countries value characteristics associated with democracy (e.g., elections, human rights, and representation), they are equally interested in qualities such as public accountability, responsiveness, transparency, and efficiency. The DG Office focuses its governance support on

- Anti-corruption initiatives
- Decentralization/local capacity-building
- Civil-military relations
- Public policy development and implementation
- Legislative strengthening

HOW TO ACCESS A DG OFFICE IMPLEMENTING MECHANISM

Copies of current acquisition and assistance awards have been sent to all missions and contracting officers. Sample statements of work are available from DCHA/DG staff or from the web at <http://inside.usaid.gov/G/DG/>.

Accessing an indefinite quantity contract (IQC):

NOTE: There is no dollar value or time limit on delivery orders other than the IQC's ceiling/period of performance.

- 1) To access the IQCs, missions prepare a statement of work (SOW) for a task order that briefly describes the purpose, background, objectives, desired activities, deliverables, and/or performance measures as appropriate, as well as a notional budget and timeframe.
- 2) The SOW is shared with the DCHA/DG cognizant technical officer (CTO) to ensure that the proposed activities are consistent with the IQC purpose and that the budget is within the existing award ceiling level. DCHA/DG may also offer substantive comments on the SOW for mission consideration.
- 3) Fair consideration as to which of the IQC firms will undertake the proposed activity is required. Section F of the contract specifies a three-tiered fair consideration process. The first tier is a review of past performance. Past performance information is available from DCHA/DG and on the Intranet at <http://inside.usaid.gov/G/DG>. The second tier is a review of proposed personnel and their availability. The third tier is a review of technical and cost proposals. Tier 2 and 3 documentation may be requested of the contractors if Tier 1 consideration is not decisive. If the mission determines that information at a tier, moving from 1-3, is sufficient to justify a fair consideration determination, there is no need to go to the next level, unless the proposed activities are $2 million or more. With requirements of $2 million or more, a Tier 3 review, managed by the mission's contracting officer, is required. If an awardee is selected based on a Tier 1 or Tier 2 review, a brief written justification is submitted to the mission contracting officer with the request to make the award.
- 4) After review of the SOW by DCHA/DG and determination of fair consideration, the mission sends a formal request to its contracting officer to negotiate a task order under the IQC.

Accessing a grant or a cooperative agreement (CA):

NOTE: Proposed programs must fit within the scope of the activities funded by the central award. However, grantees and CAs may agree to extend their program in a given country or to initiate a program in a new country. Because grants and CAs are assistance instruments, USAID may not impose a particular activity, nor may it dictate which member of the CA shall implement a given program. Preferences, however, should be stated and will be forwarded to the CA by the CTO along with the draft SOW.

1. The mission sends a draft statement of work (SOW) to the DCHA/DG program contact who serves as the cognizant technical officer (CTO). A notional budget should be attached.
2. If the existing grant or cooperative agreement program scope accommodates the proposed activity, the CTO reviews the mission SOW with the grantee. With grantee agreement the CTO responds to the mission, a funds transfer is arranged, and an incremental funding action is scheduled. If the mission SOW cannot be accommodated in the program description of the existing grant or cooperative agreement, the CTO assesses partner organization interest in the mission SOW and then, as necessary, requests negotiation of modification of the grant/cooperative agreement by the grants officer. This requires significantly more time.

Accessing a participating agency service agreement (PASA):

NOTE: Proposed programs will be discussed with PASA agency staff to determine that agency's interest and ability to respond.

1. The mission sends a draft statement of work (SOW) to the DCHA/DG program contact who serves as the cognizant technical officer (CTO).
2. After the DCHA/DG and PASA review, mission is notified of approval and sends a formal request to the appropriate contracting officer to negotiate a buy-in or incremental funding action, as appropriate.

DEMOCRACY FELLOWS COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT

Strategic Support Objectives 2.1-2.4

DCHA/DG Contact: Wendy Marshall (CTO)

Cooperative Agreement

World Learning, Inc.

Award Number

AEP-A-00-95-00024-00

Expiration

9/30/2005

Purpose: The Democracy Fellows Program (DFP) develops the talents and the career commitment of junior and mid-level democracy experts by providing them with essential field experiences in international democracy-building. The DFP is intended to help promote democratic institutions in developing countries and transitional or emerging democracies, while also helping to develop a cadre of U.S. professionals and technical experts who will have gained invaluable field experience in international democracy, development, and governance issues.

Possible Work Areas: Fellows are expected to work in the specific field of democracy and governance, for example, working with evolving democratic institutions or transitional governments; providing policy analysis and advice; developing evaluation indicators and practical applied (not purely academic) research or methodologies; actively promoting improved democratic practices; providing technical comment on host country, USAID, or other donor organizations' plans and programs; helping to strengthen the capacities of local democratic organizations; providing electoral/constitutional assistance; promoting legal or judicial administration; promoting legislative and electoral reforms; and aiding the development of counterpart institutions and individuals. Each Democracy Fellowship must also include both some technical assistance that directly benefits a host country counterpart, as well as an approved "work product" (e.g., a series of articles, book, etc.) that significantly advances the state of democracy and development.

Matching and Negotiation: Any successful fellowship necessarily requires a high degree of symmetry between the expectations and needs of the fellow and those of the sponsoring organization. This also requires a measure of mutual flexibility, all within the stated fellowship program policies that USAID has established for the DFP. Obviously, pre-award negotiations may occur among the DFP, the identified fellowship candidate, and the mission which sponsors the fellowship. It is not anticipated that any candidate's proposal will exactly match the needs and priorities of the sponsoring organization, but it is expected that the fellowship selection process will yield specific Democracy Fellows whose proposals will serve as a realistic basis for jointly negotiating with the sponsor the annual fellowship work plan that is required of each fellow.

USAID costs for DFP fellowships come from mission program budget funding (not OE budgets), via an OYB transfer to DCHA/DG. DCHA/DG is absorbing the cost of program management, operations, administration, or other overall expenses. Missions may sponsor a fellowship for a period of one or two years, or (as most missions seem to prefer) for a one-year term, with the possibility of a renewal if mutually agreeable. The DFP will also consider the feasibility of somewhat shorter term fellowships (e.g., a nine-month fellowship which may be better suited to a fellow who otherwise works on an academic calendar). In general, however, very short-term mission needs, e.g., less than six months or so, probably should be pursued through alternative short-term consultant and contractor mechanisms, rather than through the DFP.

RULE OF LAW

Strengthening rule of law and respect for human rights (Agency Objective 2.1)

Technical Division Chief
Patricia Alexander (Acting)

Just as there are many ways of defining rule of law sector elements and problems, there are also numerous ways of developing rule of law programs. The DG Office supports work in rule of law in three areas:

- Improving outdated or otherwise inadequate legal frameworks and codifying human rights
- Strengthening justice-sector institutions
- Increasing citizens' access to justice

The relative importance of these factors in a given country depends upon its cultural and historical legacy and other contextually defined conditions.

Priority Areas: Legal reform, administration of justice, citizens' access to justice, respect for human rights, and constitutions and fundamental law

IQCs FOR RULE OF LAW

Results Package Number: 932-001

DCHA/DG Contact: Keith Crawford (CTO)

IQCs	Award Number	Expiration
National Center for State Courts	AEP-I-00-00-00011-00	3/27/2005
The IRIS Center	AEP-I-00-00-00012-00	3/28/2005
Management Sciences for Development	AEP-I-00-00-00013-00	3/27/2005

Purpose: In many states with weak or nascent democratic traditions and underdeveloped economies, the processes and institutions that are necessary to uphold the rule of law are incompletely evolved, ineffective, or may not even exist. Legal frameworks are often out of touch with social reality and contemporary needs, and often diverge significantly from internationally accepted norms. Customary and informal practice may cause further deviations. When these conditions prevail, the rule of law, democratic reform, and sustainable economic development cannot be achieved.

The purpose of these IQCs is to support transition to, and consolidation of the rule of law, and the promotion and protection of human rights throughout the world. Activities under these IQCs will improve and enhance the Agency's performance in facilitating the growth and sustainability of legal and judicial systems that promote a rule of law consistent with respect for human rights and market-based economies, commitment to legal equity, and democratic principles.

Possible Work Areas: Activities under these IQCs will involve the following functional areas: (1) legal frameworks, (2) justice sector institutions, (3) access to justice, and (4) building constituencies for sectoral reform.

- (1) Legal Frameworks: Work in this area addresses a nation's legal framework (its constitution, organizational, procedural, and substantive laws, and regulations). If these are inadequate, promoting the rule of law can become a futile endeavor. For example, many developing countries inherited legal structures from colonial powers. These structures are usually antiquated or inconsistent with contemporary social and economic realities. Often, constitutionally recognized human rights guarantees are not supported in the secondary laws that effectively govern sectoral operations. These operations are also impeded by laws defining basic organization in ways that entrench inefficiencies, facilitate or encourage corruption, and undermine institutional mandates. Outdated laws often inhibit commercial transactions, and prohibit the adoption of modern technologies and practices.
- (2) Justice Sector Institutions: In most countries, the justice sector is comprised of several interdependent institutions: the judiciary, prosecutors, investigators and the police, public defenders, and the private bar. In most developing and transition countries, justice sector institutions suffer from a lack of integration, uneven development, and often incompatible institutional mandates and traditions. In addition, lack of skills and knowledge to make new systems work as intended, along with informal practices, may further distort performance. The objective for work in this area is to assist institutions to make them more efficient and effective.
- (3) Access to Justice: In many countries, years of colonialism, authoritarianism, or brutal dictatorship have robbed individuals of any expectation of fair treatment by governmental institutions. Often there is little understanding or information about rights and how to use the justice system to defend them. Inadequate capacity of the courts and resulting case backlogs frequently mean that justice is both delayed and denied. Work in this area focuses on promoting equal access to justice to ensure that all individuals are able to seek and obtain redress for their grievances—be they with other private parties or with state officials or organizations.
- (4) Building Constituencies for Reform: Reform of the justice sector is a political process and requires political support to succeed. Despite the many complaints about justice systems, and the often very clear picture of what needs to be fixed, reform programs are often stymied by a lack of effective local backing. Vested interests, powerful opposition, or the sheer weight of inertia and fear of the unknown frequently prevent any but the most minimal advances. Like the particular problems, the political obstacles vary from country to country, but in all cases, the common challenge is to generate broader interest, coordinate the actions and concerns of a variety of political actors, reach consensus on a common plan of action, and maintain support through its implementation. Work in this area is focused on developing the political will necessary to carrying through with reforms.

Specific tasks under these IQCs may include, but are not limited to the following:

- Justice sector assessments
- Justice sector strategy development
- Justice sector activity design
- Justice sector institutional analysis
- Justice sector planning
- Justice sector technical assistance
- Analysis of linkages between rule of law and economic growth objectives
- Judicial training
- Human rights training
- Other justice sector training
- Managing for results planning
- Financial analysis
- Legal analysis and research (in common and civil law systems, comparative legal systems, international law, labor law, constitutional law, business law, commercial law, law of associations, and general law)
- Auditing of justice-sector institutions
- Workshop and conference planning
- Publishing (e.g., monographs, studies)
- Procurement/logistics (e.g., computers and office supplies for courts)

DCHA/DG has prepositioned funds allowing for the rapid deployment of resources, including qualified technical personnel for reconnaissance, planning and early implementation of assistance activities. Also, the IQCs include authorization for the management of a small grants program. Please contact the CTO for further information.

HUMAN RIGHTS AND RULE OF LAW COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS

Results Package Number: 932-001

DCHA/DG Contacts: Keith Crawford (CTO)
Madeline Williams (CTO)

Cooperative Agreement	Award Number	Expiration
RIGHTS Consortium	AEP-A-00-99-00016-00	3/4/2004
IFES/Law Group Consortium	AEP-A-00-99-00017-00	3/22/2004

Purpose: DCHA/DG has awarded two “leader with associates cooperative agreements” to non-governmental organizations to enhance the Agency’s capacity to promote respect for human rights and the rule of law by providing accelerated access to NGOs with extensive human rights and rule of law expertise. The RIGHTS Consortium includes Freedom House as the lead organization with the American Bar Association’s Central and Eastern European Initiative (ABA/CEELI) and the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs (NDI). The second consortium includes the International Foundation for Election Systems (IFES) as the lead organization and the International Human Rights Law Group (Law Group).

Possible Work Areas: Both consortia offer programs in the following areas:

- Strengthening legal protections for human rights and gender equity in conformance with international standards
- Promoting the reform of judicial, legal, and regulatory frameworks (codes, laws, constitutions, etc.) that support democratic institutions and market-based economies
- Strengthening justice sector institutions, including the judiciary, prosecution, legal defenders, and civilian police
- Improving access to justice and the skills and knowledge necessary to use the justice system effectively, including legal literacy, legal, and alternative dispute resolution programs

Leader with Associates Cooperative Agreements: The two cooperative agreements are structured to offer USAID accelerated access to the expertise of the NGO partners. Awarded as “leader with associates” agreements, missions and bureaus may negotiate and award, with no further competition (and without the noncompetitive justification required by ADS 303), separate cooperative agreements or grants to the partner organizations for work in rule of law and human rights. Associate award provisions are thereby loosely analogous to those for task orders under an IQC. In addition, DCHA/DG funding of the leader awards pre-positions resources for the quick mobilization of personnel when needed. For USAID Missions and bureaus, the cooperative agreements thus offer ready assistance in meeting urgent requirements for assessments, strategy formulation, activity design, and implementation start-up. The rapid response capability is expected to be especially useful in the programming of economic support funds and non-presence country activities.

The scope of activities that are eligible to be undertaken through either the leader or associate agreements is broad and meant to cover the complete spectrum of donor assistance activities in rule of law and human rights. Specifically, an activity that is consistent with the above stated purpose or work areas is eligible to be undertaken with the provisions of the new cooperative agreements.

The leader agreements have an authorized funding level of $4 million each and a five-year life (see expiration dates at top). There is no limit on the value of individual associate awards, nor ceiling on the total value of associate awards that may be awarded over the effective life of the leader agreement. Associate awards may extend beyond the life of the lead award.

Missions and bureaus interested in accessing the services of either of the two cooperative agreements should contact the CTO for further details and guidance.

Core Activities:

Leader Cooperative Agreements—DCHA/DG will fund core activities under the two leader cooperative agreements to which missions and regional and other central bureaus may also wish to contribute. Core funds will be spent on four main areas: rapid response assistance in non-presence and priority presence countries; regional and inter-regional human rights and legal advocacy networks; development and dissemination of resource materials; and assessment and evaluation. Core funding is, unfortunately, very limited, and field missions may fund core activities with their own funds.

Associate Award Activities—Missions/bureaus fund all “associate” award activities.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE PASA

Results Package Number: 932-001

DCHA/DG Contact: Madeline Williams (CTO)

PASA

Department of Justice

Award Number

AEP-P-00-96-00024

Expiration

9/30/2003

Purpose: Strengthening the capacity of legal systems and institutions to render justice fairly and effectively is fundamental to establishing the rule of law. To advance USAID's efforts in these areas, DCHA/DG entered into a participating agency service agreement (PASA) with the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ). Under the PASA, USAID Missions around the world can utilize DOJ's expertise to conduct justice sector assessments, design ROL projects, provide technical assistance and training, review laws and legislation, and make policy recommendations.

Possible Work Areas: Through its office for Overseas Prosecutorial Development, Assistance and Training, DOJ can offer a broad range of ROL support by drawing from its pool of administrative personnel and 8,000-plus attorneys, as well as other legal sector professionals. For example, DOJ can provide technical assistance and training to judges, prosecutors, and other justice sector personnel in such areas as basic legal and investigative skills, professional responsibility, case management, budgeting, and strategic planning. In addition, DOJ can offer more specialized assistance directed at addressing a variety of crime problems, including public corruption, fraud, money laundering, organized crime, and child exploitation. While the PASA emphasizes criminal justice assistance, it also enables USAID Missions to access DOJ's expertise in other areas, such as civil rights, commercial law, and environmental law.

Depending on their availability and departmental interests, DOJ personnel may be available for short- to long-term ROL assignments. In general, with respect to short-term assignments, it is envisioned that DOJ will continue to pay the salary costs of its personnel, while USAID will cover additional costs associated with ROL activities, such as travel and per diem. Thus, aside from providing access to considerable legal resources, the PASA offers missions a cost-effective means of delivering ROL assistance.

This agreement must be accessed through the Office of Democracy and Governance. USAID Missions should contact the CTO to discuss the agreement. Please do not contact the DOJ directly.

ELECTIONS AND POLITICAL PROCESSES

More genuine and competitive political processes (Agency Objective 2.2)

Technical Division Chief
Michele Schimpp

Elections can be a primary tool to help force political openings and expand political participation. In recent years, elections have been a principal vehicle for democratization, as authoritarian governments have frequently fallen to democratic forces. Electoral campaigns also tend to foster political liberalization. For an election to be free and fair, certain civil liberties, such as the freedoms of speech, association, and assembly, are required. Elections offer political parties and civic groups an opportunity to mobilize and organize supporters and share alternative platforms with the public. They also serve to encourage political debate.

Priority Areas: Impartial electoral frameworks, credible electoral administration, effective oversight of electoral processes, informed and active citizenries, representative and competitive multi-party systems, inclusion of women and other disadvantaged groups, effective transfers of political power

CONSORTIUM FOR ELECTIONS AND POLITICAL PROCESS STRENGTHENING II

Results Package Number: 932-002

DCHA/DG Contact: Sundaa Bridgett (CTO)

Cooperative Agreement
CEPPS

Award Number
DGC-A-00-01-00004-00

Expiration
2/3/2006

Purpose: DCHA/DG has awarded a cooperative agreement to the Consortium for Elections and Political Process Strengthening (CEPPS), a joint venture among the International Foundation for Election Systems, the International Republican Institute, and the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs. All three are leaders in this field and possess a vast amount of experience and expertise. CEPPS programs may be implemented by one member of the consortium, by two or more working on activities separately, or by two or more members working jointly.

The purpose of this agreement is to strengthen and support democratic electoral and political processes by providing access to international and regional organizations that offer a full array of activities in this field. The emphasis is on long-term planning and sustainable development of electoral and political processes rather than event-driven, crisis-oriented activities centered on a single election. The award was designed to allow for the initiation and implementation of short- and long-term activities without requiring a time-consuming competitive application process.

Possible Work Areas: The CEPPS cooperative agreement is designed to respond to immediate and long-term mission and bureau needs related to assessments, strategy formulations, activity designing, and program implementation. The scope of this new award broadens the range of possible activities. Specifically, activities initiated under this award may promote any of the following objectives:

- (1) Credible electoral administration: CEPPS will pursue the goal of building a sustainable indigenous capacity for developing credible electoral administration through approaches such as pre-election training and assessments; strengthening indigenous capacity at all levels of the process through training programs that ensure professionalism and sustainability; and facilitating international donor coordination that allows for effective assistance to reach defined targets in a timely manner.
- (2) Impartial electoral framework: Technical assistance and support for legislators, election administrators, and other government officials, political parties, and citizen groups can be used to develop effective and impartial laws, regulations, constitutional provisions, and institutions that govern electoral processes. Assessments, legislative drafting, fora for public participation and dialogue on electoral reform, and technical assistance to local NGOs are illustrative examples of the avenues that CEPPS provides.
- (3) An informed and active citizenry: Approaches to promote this objective may include civic education campaigns that prepare citizens to exercise their rights and responsibilities in a democratic society; voter education campaigns to inform citizens about the voting process, motivate them to vote, and help them distinguish between political competitors on the basis of substantive issues; training in citizen participation, policy advocacy, and watchdog activities to ensure effective public input in the political process; and capacity building of local NGOs to ensure sustainable and vibrant civil society engagement in governmental and political processes.
- (4) Effective oversight of electoral process: CEPPS can employ comprehensive, long-term approaches to election oversight that link election monitoring with efforts to strengthen electoral complaint mechanisms, as well as regulatory and law reform efforts by political parties, electoral authorities, and citizen groups. Election monitoring programs can be developed to improve the credibility of the electoral process and increase public confidence. Compliant mechanisms may be developed through political party pollwatching and the mobilization of knowledgeable get-out-the-vote workers. The consortium also will support domestic nonpartisan monitoring initiatives by NGOs and help them strengthen their capacities to conduct watchdog and policy advocacy activities between elections. Where appropriate, CEPPS can organize international election assessments that address the entire election process.

- (5) Representative and competitive multi-party system: Political party strengthening programs can be used to develop substantive platforms that reflect citizen concerns and democratic structures within parties based on public input. Assistance to political parties can be given at the national and/or sub-national levels to develop and implement strategic plans, professional secretariats with management and budgetary capabilities, internal communications, and pollwatching capabilities. CEPPS can provide confidential, individual consultations to all viable democratic parties in a country, multi-party fora and networks, and study missions to other countries. Training activities will be developed through consultations with individual parties and with the help of opinion polling and focus groups.
- (6) Effective transfer of political power: CEPPS may be used to provide training or technical assistance for the development of skills for newly elected leaders or new political structures. In situations of transfers of power, CEPPS can offer rapid response assistance to political parties, legislative bodies, and citizen groups. Technical assistance, guidance, training, and other activities can also be used to promote political consolidation, coalition building, and constitutional reform.
- (7) Effective governance by elected leaders and bodies: CEPPS programs strive to promote the development of competent, accountable, transparent, and responsive legislatures that are capable of representing the electorate, overseeing the executive, and participating in the development of laws and policies. Through member and staff training, institutional development and lawmaking projects, CEPPS provides assistance on rules of procedure, transparency, operations of party caucuses, role of the opposition, legislative ethics, committee functions, constituency relations, and oversight of executive agencies. Using this mechanism, lawmakers and public officials can be offered comparative information about the fundamentals of the democratic process for bill-drafting, as well as techniques for increasing citizen access to the legislative process through hearings, public comment periods, correspondence, and district and town meetings.
- (8) Increased participation of women and historically disenfranchised groups: In all areas of programming, CEPPS may be used to solicit support from women and minorities and encourage their participation, including as experts, trainers, and election observers. Training can be offered to political candidates from underrepresented constituencies in order to help them develop strategies to build coalitions, reach out to voters, gather media support, and raise funds, as well to assist them in their roles as an elected official. CEPPS also works with underrepresented groups to help them build issue based and electoral coalitions; raise funds; organize advocacy, voter registration, and get-out-the-vote campaigns; and develop networks of candidates, organizations, and leaders from underrepresented groups, including women.

CIVIL SOCIETY

Increased development of a politically active civil society (Agency Objective 2.3)

Technical Division Chief
Gary Hansen

It is through the advocacy efforts of civil society organizations that people are given a voice in the process of formulating public policy. Organizations including human rights groups, professional associations, religious institutions, pro-democracy groups, environmental activist organizations, business associations, labor unions, media organizations, and think tanks play a vital role in educating the public and the government on important local and national issues. Many civil society organizations take on controversial issues. They champion women's rights, ferret out government corruption and impunity, and spotlight business practices that are exploitative of labor and the environment. Their presence and activities help assure that government and citizens comply with the rule of law.

Priority Areas: Encouraging the development of enabling environments and assisting groups to become financially viable and self-sufficient

IQCs FOR CIVIL SOCIETY

Results Package Number: 932-003

DCHA/DG Contact: Mary Ann Riegelman (CTO)

IQCs	Award Number	Expiration
Creative Associates International	AEP-I-00-00-0019-00	07/11/2005
Management Systems International	AEP-I-00-00-0018-00	07/11/2005

Purpose: The primary purpose of these IQCs is to provide rapid response technical assistance to support civil society programs of USAID Missions and regional bureaus. Services shall focus primarily on the capacity building needs of USAID's civil society partners, at the country, regional, and local levels. The range of technical assistance activities includes the design, implementation and evaluation of activities in the following areas: (1) institutional capacity building, (2) sectoral support, (3) conferencing/networking, and (4) independent media.

Possible Work Areas:

- (1) Institutional Capacity Building: The objectives of this activity are (a) to strengthen and/or build the institutional and managerial capacity of civil society organizations (CSOs); and (b) to improve the overall capacity of USAID Missions and bureaus to plan, manage and evaluate (e.g., ensure that lessons learned can be applied to future programs) the programs and projects that strengthen civil society. To accomplish the first objective, the contractors provide technical assistance in such areas as strategic planning and management, financial management and evaluation, and personnel/human resource management. These activities are intended to strengthen civil society organizations' internal practices of democratic governance, e.g., accountability, diversity (particularly as it relates to gender), and transparency. To accomplish the second objective the IQCs can provide technical assistance to USAID Missions and bureaus to design, implement, and evaluate civil society programs.
- (2) Sectoral Support: The objective of this activity is to increase the capacities and roles of CSOs in monitoring government policy formation and implementation (i.e., being watchdogs), as initiators of democratic reforms, and as participants in the formation and implementation of public policy. This activity will support the capacity of CSOs to participate in the formulation and the implementation of public policies in a range of democratic governance reform areas at both the macro and the micro levels. Specifically, this activity will increase the capacity of indigenous CSOs to participate in public policy formation and implementation in such areas as rule of law, including human and civil rights; judicial and legal reform; electoral reform and political party development; decentralization and local government reform; legislative reform; and sectoral reform and policy-making in such areas as economic growth, labor, land tenure, and resource use.
- (3) Networking: The objective of this activity is to increase cross-fertilization, dialogue, and greater cooperation between and among indigenous, U.S., and international CSOs. Additionally, this activity will increase the linkages between primary level (e.g., self-governing associations), intermediary associations, and national level support organizations. This would include apex organizations or federations, consortia, sectoral networks, think tanks and policy institutes, university departments (e.g., law faculties, media), and training and research institutes.
- (4) Independent Media: The objective of this activity is to strengthen independent print and broadcast media, which are critical elements of a vibrant, pluralistic civil society. Independent media provide information, analysis, and opinion. They provide the informational basis for civil society, the venue for policy discussion, and (to the extent that there is a tension between society and the state) one way by which elements of civil society can check the state and non-state actors. Independent media are critical to democracy in general and a dynamic civil society in particular. Illustrative activities include journalism training in-country or abroad, provision of limited amounts of commodities (such as media & computer equipment); capacity building for professional associations; provision of small grants to media outlets; advocacy support with legislative and regulatory bodies; professional networking (various media centers), exchanges, seminars; civic education on merits of a free press; development of niche market publications.

DCHA/DG has prepositioned funds allowing for the rapid deployment of resources, including qualified technical personnel for reconnaissance, planning and early implementation of assistance activities. Also, the IQCs include authorization for the management of a small grants program. Please contact the CTO for further information.

CIVIL SOCIETY STRENGTHENING COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS

Results Package Number: 932-003

DCHA/DG Contact: David Nelson (CTO)

Cooperative Agreement	Award Number	Expiration
Academy for Educational Development	AEP-A-00-01-00004-00	3/9/2006
Pact, Inc.	GEG-A-00-01-00005-00	3/9/2006

Purpose: DCHA/DG has awarded two five-year leader with associate cooperative agreements to NGOs in order to strengthen the planning and activity implementing capabilities of civil society organizations. Each recipient or cooperator represents a consortium of civil society partners. The cooperative agreements will be jointly managed with DCHA/DG's civil society team. Each award supports innovative approaches that are most likely to enhance local civil society organizations' in facilitating a country's transition to, or consolidation of, participatory democratic processes and economic development. Activities aimed at six objectives will be carried out under each award:

Possible Work Areas:

- (1) Establishment of legal frameworks to protect and promote civil society. Supporting enactment of laws safeguarding freedom of association (e.g., membership in labor unions); efficient and transparent NGO registration procedures; favorable taxation policies for the non-profit sector; freedom of information; efficient and transparent media licensing procedures; journalists; and rights of women and minorities.
- (2) Increased citizen participation in policy processes, implementation, and oversight of public institutions. Supporting activities aimed at representing the interests and rights of citizens; articulating those interests to decision-makers; influencing policy decisions based on represented interests; oversight of government actions and expenditures; and exercising oversight to ensure government and citizen compliance with adopted policies.
- (3) Increased institutional and financial viability of civil society organizations (CSOs). Supporting introduction of democratic features in CSO management and policymaking; institute strategic planning, monitoring, and evaluation systems; comply with generally acceptable accounting and auditing standards; and diversify their resource bases through effective fundraising or revenue-generating techniques. Assisting institutional development of not-for-profit organizations such as human rights and advocacy groups, professional associations, trade unions, women's rights groups, environmental activist groups, business associations, media organizations, religious institutions, and centers of political and social policy analysis.
- (4) Enhanced free flow of information. Assisting the institutional development of plural arrays of independent non-governmental sources of information including print, broadcast, and electronic media; access to public information; the Internet; legal rights; and unencumbered flow of information. Facilitating investigative reporting and strengthening financial and management capacities of indigenous media.
- (5) Strengthened democratic political culture and gender equity. Supporting civic education, including adult education, in-school education for children, use of media, and small grant-funded community development activities can be useful in promoting a gender-sensitive and broad-based democratic culture.
- (6) Support to anti-sweatshop initiatives. Promoting small grants activities (individual grants estimated from $25,000 to $150,000) to support local organizations, including trade unions, enterprises, independent media, and government bodies; addressing abusive labor conditions in overseas factories producing products for the U.S. market.

Leader with Associates Cooperative Agreement: Both recipients of the leader awards have been provided with “working capital” from the DG Office’s core funds. This enables both partners to rapidly respond to bureaus’ and field missions’ requirements on a reimbursable basis. Examples of these types of activities might include civil society assessments, activity design and implementation, training, technical assistance, monitoring and evaluations, seminars and workshops, and sub-grants or contracts to indigenous technical service providers. These may be undertaken in both USAID presence and non-presence countries. The anticipated value of the two leader awards over the five-year life-of-activity is $6 million each.

With consent of either cooperator and concurrence by DCHA/DG, additional CoAgs or grants known as associate awards may be negotiated and awarded separately by USAID Missions or Bureaus. Funding of associate awards is separate from and in addition to the $12 million total budget anticipated for the two leader awards.

The associate awards may also be done without further competition or announcements to support the same objectives described above. Each associate award shall contain a separate activity description fitting within the broader program description of the leader award as well as separate budget and reporting requirements. Associate awards shall, however, be covered under the terms and conditions of the leader cooperative agreement award. Substantial involvement clauses included in associate awards must be consistent with those in the leader awards. The substantial involvement clauses in the two CoAgs are USAID’s:

- Approval of partners’ annual work plans
- Designation of key positions and approval of key personnel
- Approval of monitoring and evaluation plans and its involvement in monitoring progress towards program objectives

Anticipated value of the associate awards over the life of activity is estimated at $ 50 million. Although competition of associate awards is not required, bureaus and missions may review the past experience of each partner and members of their respective consortia.

MEDIA STRENGTHENING GRANT

Results Package Number: 932-003

DCHA/DG Contact: Mary Ann Riegelman (CTO)

Grant
Internews

Award Number
DCG-A-00-01-00007-00

Expiration
5/31/2003

Purpose: The purpose of this grant is to provide media professionals with individualized instruction and practice in producing and managing high-quality radio and television programs at Western Kentucky University (WKU) and in their home countries. For a given country, the program organizes (a) training at WKU for journalists, (b) training at WKU for managers from the same companies as the journalists, and (c) follow-on training in-country for all WKU participants and additional journalists and managers. The program targets broadcast media, but could accommodate print media professionals as well. WKU employs techniques developed in its international program to develop, in workshop and individualized settings, participants' skills as journalists, media managers, leaders, and mentors in their home professional communities. Participants also gain practical experience in training of trainers, team teaching alongside WKU and other media experts, and hands-on practice at the university radio station, local television stations, and other U.S. media enterprises. Internews' experienced international training staff assist in providing follow-up training in participants' countries in conjunction with WKU faculty and trainers.

Possible Work Areas:

- (1) Journalism and Management Intensive Courses at WKU: Intensive three-week broadcast journalism and two-week media management programs will offer training slots to 160 participants over the grant's first two years life of agreement. Journalism sessions will take place during WKU's summer break and radio/TV station management training during the academic year. In addition to imparting and honing skills and practices, seminars will prepare trainees for the coming convergence of media information conveyed through the Internet and digital technologies. Graduates will receive practical experience and instructional materials in their native languages suitable to imparting training to other. These will include Internews-prepared manuals used worldwide and reflect sensitivities of the developmental nature of media in emerging democracies.
- (1) Creating Broadcast Communities: Internews' trainers and WKU faculty and staff will impart to participating journalists and broadcast station managers experience and insights on the roles of broadcast media and professional associations of broadcasters in civil society advocacy reform of media regulation. Participants will also receive instruction and didactic materials on development of media professional associations, media law, and development of media advocacy organizations in countries in democratic transition.
- (2) Equipment Grants: Each participant is provided with a locally-appropriate field kit consisting of a minidisk player/recorder, microphone, and materials on using these in producing higher-quality interviews on-site. A laptop computer loaded with desktop and editing software will be awarded to the participant judged at the top of her/his class.
- (3) Follow-on Training in Participants' Home Countries & Training of Trainers: Internews and WKU instructors will conduct in-country follow-on training to reinforce techniques imparted in the training courses. On-site training will be in the form of seminars, workshops, and short residencies at host-country broadcast stations. Each of the 160 graduates of the WKU/Internews program's first two years will be prepared to serve as a resource and encouraged to participate in in-country workshops to further hone skills as trainers by visiting Internews and WKU instructors. Objective of in-country training of trainers is to expand outreach to additional 200 broadcast journalists.
- (4) Continuing Education Website: A dedicated program website with high and low speed interfaces will be established after completion of the first round of intensive courses in the fall of 2002.

Screening of Applicants: Special emphasis is being given to enrolling women as at least 50 percent of the applicants and ethnic minorities subject to participating countries' cultural practices. Internews will, as practicable, rely on its network of offices in 19 countries to provide infrastructure for the applicant vetting process. In countries where Internews does not operate, prospective candidates will be identified by local and international NGOs, U.S. Embassy/USAID staff, and where appropriate, through advertisements placed in local print and broadcast media and e-mail lists. Candidates should be proficient in written and oral English. Applicant managers and journalists from the print media may be considered in the grant's third year subject to availability of funds.

GLOBAL LABOR PROGRAM COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT

Results Package Number: 932-003

DCHA/DG Contact: Mike Hancock (CTO)

Cooperative Agreement
Solidarity Center

Award Number
DGC-A-00-02-00002-00

Expiration
2/8/2007

Note: Through DCHA/DG, USAID has awarded the new cooperative agreement to the American Center for International Labor Solidarity (Solidarity Center). In the past, these programs were administered by the AFL-CIO regional institutes. The institutes were then consolidated into the Solidarity Center, which operates programs worldwide.

Purpose: The Solidarity Center provides technical assistance to 1) promote the adoption and effective enforcement of core labor standards; 2) establish legal frameworks to protect and promote civil society; 3) increase citizen participation in policy processes, implementation, and oversight of public institutions; 4) increase institutional and financial viability of labor unions and labor NGOs; 5) enhance free flow of information; 6) strengthen democratic culture and gender equity; 7) support anti-sweatshop activities; 8) promote broad-based, equitable economic growth; 9) build human capacity through education and training; and 10) improve health through workplace and peer-to-peer health education and prevention. The center's work is based on three fundamental issues: adherence to core labor standards, gender integration, and the use of partnerships and communications technology to promote coalitions across civil society and national borders.

Possible Work Areas: USAID and the Solidarity Center continue to focus their work on the role and participation of unions in promoting democratic governance, free and transparent elections, the rule of law, and broad-based economic growth strategies. They are also focusing on health issues (including HIV/AIDS), democratic-industrial relations, and human resource development.

The Solidarity Center is the award's lead organization. USAID created a leader-associate award mechanism to speed up the procurement process, through a pre-approved grant vehicle. This enables the missions and other U.S. government departments and agencies, to add associate awards that address the same objectives as the pre-existing leader award, without taking the time to compete these programs. After the CTO in Washington has determined that the scope falls within the objectives of the leader award, the missions then manage these grants, set their terms, and can develop programming that includes affiliate organizations that are a part of the award. These awards can be extended beyond the five-year life of the leader award.

INTERNATIONAL LABOR RIGHTS FUND GRANT

Results Package Number: 932-003

DCHA/DG Contact: Adriana Barsotti-Kaplan (CTO)

Grant	Award Number	Expiration
International Labor Rights Fund	AEP-G-00-99-00062-00	12/31/2003

Purpose: Under the terms of this grant, the International Labor Rights Fund (ILRF) is providing technical assistance to civil society organizations in two countries, one in Asia and one in the Americas, to build their capacity to monitor labor practices in the apparel industry. With growing public awareness of labor abuses and “sweatshop” working conditions, particularly in the manufacturing of garment and footwear products, many multinational corporations have voluntarily adopted codes of conduct to govern workplace practices domestically and internationally. Many of these companies have gone even further by committing themselves to an on-going process of independent monitoring and corrective action. The focus of the ILRF grant is to develop the capacity of indigenous civil society organizations, broadly-defined and inclusive of free trade unions, to perform these monitoring functions.

Possible Work Areas: The scope of work includes (1) development of criteria for country selection, including an assessment of the enabling environment, relevance to USAID goals and objectives, availability of corporate participants, and qualifications of existing civil society organizations (2) coalition-building (3) development of training materials (4) monitoring visits and data collection (5) development of reporting instruments and (6) preparation of evaluation reports and recommendations for response.

This project is currently limited to a two-year, two-country pilot project.

GOVERNANCE

More transparent and accountable government institutions (Agency Objective 2.4)

Technical Division Chief

Neil Levine

Many citizens of developing countries recognize the intrinsic value of democracy (e.g., elections, human rights, and representation). However, they are also concerned with a government's ability to function. In general, governance issues pertain to the ability of government to develop an efficient and effective public management process. Because citizens lose confidence in a government that is unable to deliver basic services, the degree to which a government is able to carry out its functions at any level is often a key determinant of a country's ability to sustain democratic reform.

Priority Areas: Anti-corruption initiatives, decentralization and local capacity-building, civil-military relations, public policy development and implementation, and legislative strengthening

Development Associates, Inc.	AEP-I-00-00-00004-00	2/7/2005

Purpose: To improve the capacity and performance of legislatures, their members, and staff in realizing their representative, lawmaking, and oversight functions. This activity establishes a mechanism for missions to assist host country legislatures to improve their deliberative processes so that they are more democratic, are more transparent and accountable, better represent the public interest, and result in better monitoring of governmental performance.

Possible Work Areas: Missions and bureaus will be able to draw on these IQCs to develop general programs and specific activities to help national or subnational legislatures become transparent and accountable as they improve their capacity to perform their democratic functions. Activities in these areas may include, but are not limited to

- Conducting assessments of the operations of deliberative bodies, designing strategies to improve their operation and effectiveness within a democratic context, and carrying out evaluations of legislative assistance programs
- Developing understanding and means of improving the democratic links between legislators and their districts, their elected subnational government bodies, and their constituents
- Clarifying role and responsibility definitions for parliamentary bodies vis-à-vis the executive and judicial branches of government, NGOs, and constituents
- Providing training to host country legislators and staff regarding best practices for policy formulation, the conduct of public meetings/hearings, and public policy mediation/negotiation
- Providing advisory services pertaining to the drafting, oversight, and implementation of laws, regulations, and ordinances consistent with a democratic government reform
- Developing strategies, programs, and activities that optimize linkages between legislative strengthening and other sectoral areas of USAID's sustainable development strategy

DCHA/DG has prepositioned funds allowing for the rapid deployment of resources, including qualified technical personnel for reconnaissance, planning and early implementation of assistance activities. Also, the IQCs include authorization for the management of a small grants program. Please contact the CTO for more information.

IQCs FOR DECENTRALIZATION, PARTICIPATORY GOVERNMENT, AND PUBLIC MANAGEMENT

Results Package Number: 932-004

DCHA/DG Contact: Ed Connerley (CTO)

IQCs	Award Number	Expiration
Associates in Rural Development, Inc.	AEP-I-00-00-00016-00	7/4/2005
Research Triangle Institute	AEP-I-00-00-00017-00	7/4/2005

Purpose: Decentralization changes the distribution of power within societies and can deepen democracy. Reversion to centralized authoritarianism is more difficult when power is diffused and multiple channels for citizen involvement have been developed. Also, moving the locus for decision-making closer to those it affects can improve government responsiveness. These IQCs provide for services in the areas of decentralization and public administration. Two functional areas are included: 1) decentralization and participatory government, and 2) public management and administration.

Possible Work Areas:

- 1) Decentralization and Participatory Government: Work in these areas has the following objectives: (a) increasing participatory decision-making, transparency, accountability, and responsiveness at all levels of government by working with both state and non-state actors; (b) increasing the capacity of local government authorities to meet public responsibilities; (c) increasing local participation in government decision-making; and (d) assisting local governments to serve as a counterweight to central state authorities and to participate in policy-making at the regional and national levels.
- 2) Public Management and Administration: The objective of this activity is to increase the capacity and performance of all levels of government and of NGOs to execute functions related to the management of public goods and services, public safety, and economic and social reform.

Activities in these areas may include, but are not limited to the following:

- Developing, designing, and implementing decentralization plans, and addressing policy issues related to decentralization and local government programs
- Strengthening the functioning of democratic local government by improving the administrative and technical skills of local authorities (including locally-elected officials, government employees at all levels of government, and NGOs), particularly in planning, delineation of responsibilities and authority, functional organization, and formal decision-making
- Establishing local government practices and procedures to oppose and combat official government corruption at local, regional, and national levels. Work may include assistance to support investigative auditing, corruption awareness training, building transparency into transactions, developing and applying incentives and sanctions to avoid corrupt behavior, and drafting of ethics codes
- Developing strategies, programs, and practices that seek to increase participation: specifically, to increase the direct and indirect participation of women and other formerly disenfranchised groups in government decision-making
- Developing strategies, programs, and activities that optimize linkages between local governance and other sectoral areas of USAID's sustainable development strategy

- Developing general programs and specific projects to address problems of administrative, financial, and political autonomy and transparency
- Providing training to develop strategies for financing local government, improving local financial autonomy, tax collection, and government budgeting (including integrated financial management systems for budget, debt collection, and accounting systems)
- Advising on personnel/civil service reform to help increase the transparency of staffing and personnel decisions
- Training host country public servants at all levels to design and operate sustainable and transparent financial, administrative, and management systems
- Helping define roles and responsibilities for local governments vis-a-vis other levels of government, NGOs, and the private sector

DCHA/DG has prepositioned funds allowing for the rapid deployment of resources, including qualified technical personnel for reconnaissance, planning and early implementation of assistance activities. Also, the IQCs include authorization for the management of a small grants program. Please contact the CTO for further information.

ANTI-CORRUPTION PROGRAM ASSISTANCE GRANT

Results Package Number: 932-004

DCHA/DG Contact: Madalene O'Donnell (CTO)

Grant	Award Number	Expiration
Transparency International	AEP-G-00-95-00028-00	12/31/2004

Purpose: Transparency International (TI) is a Berlin-based NGO whose mission is to curb corruption through international and national coalitions encouraging governments to establish and implement effective laws, policies, and anti-corruption programs. TI hopes to strengthen public support for anti-corruption programs and enhance transparency and accountability in government.

Possible Work Areas: TI's strategy to accomplish its mission is to establish coalitions of like-minded organizations and individuals to work with governments in developing and implementing national anti-corruption programs. To date, TI has established over 70 national chapters that foster anti-corruption programs in their own countries in accordance with TI's approaches and core values. TI is also developing an information center and conducting research into aspects of containing corruption; participating in public fora; using publicity campaigns to broaden public awareness of the damage caused by corruption, the need to counter it, and the means to reduce it; and compiling an annual index of perceptions of corruption around the world. Mission and bureau add-ons to the grant are possible. Because the grant is an assistance instrument, TI must agree that the proposed activity fits within its existing program.

In addition to this core grant, the Center launched a three-year grant to TI in September 1997. This grant pays for four regional anti-corruption conferences as well as intensive anti-corruption work in 8-10 countries. The country-focused work starts with a baseline survey on corruption in the country and an integrity workshop that allows participants to identify key problems in their country related to corruption and to lay out strategies for overcoming them. Workshop participants include government officials, academics, journalists, civil society representatives, and business leaders who jointly have the capacity to carry out the reforms they propose.

After the kick-off workshop, TI would work with workshop participants to assess the types and content of technical assistance most needed and arrange to have it provided. Such areas might include assistance in designing and even implementing regulatory reform, ethics guidelines, financial management systems, training in advocacy, public awareness raising, etc. No more than a year later, TI would conduct a second survey and a follow-up workshop to review progress, assess the implications for future work, and revise the priorities, timetable, and responsibility assignments as necessary. TI would again assist in providing or accessing technical assistance.

The G/DG grant would pay for the two workshops and the management time of TI throughout the integrity program. Funding for the surveys and specific anti-corruption interventions would come from the host-country government, USAID Mission, and/or other donors. TI anticipates working in countries where there are suitable partners in government and civil society who are genuinely committed to reform and where USAID Missions have identified transparency and accountability as areas to work in.

CIVIL-MILITARY AFFAIRS COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT

Results Package Number: 932-004

DCHA/DG Contact: Neil Levine (CTO)

Cooperative Agreement
PDGS

Award Number
AEP-A-00-98-00014-00

Expiration
01/31/2004

Purpose: DCHA/DG has awarded a cooperative agreement to support the Partnership for Democratic Governance and Security (PDGS). The partnership is headed by the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs (NDI) in association with the Center for Civil-Military Relations (CCMR) of the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, California. In addition, the partnership presently consists of three contributing partners: the Universidad Torcuato di Tella and SER (Seguridad Estrategica Regional) en el 2000, both of Argentina, and the Institute for Security and Development Studies (ISDS) of the Philippines.

The purpose of the agreement is to foster civil-military relations that are compatible with and conducive to democracy. The global civil-military relations program will pursue the following general objectives: 1) to increase the capacity of both civilian government institutions and non-governmental organizations to understand, analyze, and propose policy in security and defense-related matters; 2) to support and encourage civil-military interaction, discussion, and dialogue; and 3) to facilitate the public availability and exchange of information on such matters. More specific descriptions of programming areas are found below.

- (1) Civilians in Government: One objective of the PDGS cooperative agreement is to increase the capacity of civilian branches of government to perform their functions of management and oversight of the military within a democratic context. This includes educating government officials about their roles and responsibilities vis-a-vis security and defense issues, the role and mission of the armed forces, democratic management and oversight of the military, transparency of the military budget, and military accountability to civilian governance. Elected officials, members of the civil service, and appointed staff of both the legislative and the executive branches require skills and knowledge about civil-military relations to carry out their functions effectively.
- (2) Civil Society Training: The PDGS also aims to educate civilians outside of government about the role they can play in strengthening civil-military relations which are supportive of democracy. These civilians and their organizations range from academics and universities, think tanks, journalists, and NGOs that mediate civil-military interaction to human rights lawyers and NGOs, watch dog organizations, labor and trade unions, and advocacy groups. To attain this end, the PDGS provides activities that raise public awareness about civil-military relations and security issues; trains journalists in reporting on security and military issues; increases the capacity of NGOs to oversee the military's budget, expenditures, and activities; and expands civil society's level of expertise about the military, its role and mission, and its relationship to society and politics.
- (3) Civil-military Interaction: The PDGS recognizes that a major obstacle to the formation of more democratic civil-military relations is the tendency for civilians and the military to view each other with distrust, suspicion, and disrespect, thus failing to seize opportunities to exchange views, information, and ideas. The PDGS member institutions work to promote greater interaction between civilians and the military, establish dialogues on issues of common concern, and build trust and confidence between them.
- (4) Public Availability of Information: The partnership can work with missions and local actors to promote greater openness and easier access to information regarding defense, security, and military affairs, such as national laws on defense and the armed forces, publication of the military budget, information on the defense industry, military activities, and security threats. The PDGS can provide access to training of journalists to investigate and report on military and security affairs and to promote greater media interest in these issues.

- (5) Information Dissemination: In order to expand on the knowledge of both civilians and the military, the PDGS has created the Governance and Defense Clearinghouse. The clearinghouse makes available, both on-line and in hard copy, journal articles and working papers, PDGS-produced resource publications and case studies, information on defense and military laws, security affairs educational programs and scholarships, academic abstracts and bibliographies regarding civil-military relations, and masters degree theses produced at CCMR.
- (6) Technical Leadership: Missions and regional bureaus may wish to participate in the PDGS' technical leadership activities. The partnership will hold conferences, seminars, and exchanges dealing with a variety of technical areas to determine best practices and identify lessons learned. Another purpose of these activities is to build networks of legislators, civilian members of ministries of defense, military officers, NGOs, scholars, and journalists.

Core Activities: DCHA/DG is funding the core activities of the partnership. Core funds will be spent on six areas: a) rapid response assistance in non-presence countries and other special cases, b) building regional and inter-regional networks, c) the production of resource materials, d) information and dissemination, e) the development of a security affairs curriculum for use in democratizing countries, and f) the development of indigenous NGOs through small grants, TA, and improved coordination with other organizations concerned with security affairs. Core-funded activities that benefit USAID Missions may be supplemented through mission add-ons (OYB transfers) to fund country-level programming.

The three contributing partners (Universidad Torcuato di Tella, SER en el 2000, and the Institute for Security and Development Studies) will each have responsibility for specific aspects of the global activities and will contribute to country-level activities where appropriate.

IQCs FOR STRATEGIC POLICY AND INSTITUTIONAL REFORM

Results Package Number: 932-004

DCHA/DG Contact: Neil Levine (CTO)

IQCs	Award Number	Expiration
Management Systems International	AEP-I-00-00-00005-00	12/10/2004
Development Alternatives, Inc.	AEP-I-00-00-00006-00	12/14/2004

Purpose: Overcoming constraints to implementing reform is one of the most critical challenges faced by developing countries. Reforms often call for changed roles, altered incentive structures, and unfamiliar ways of doing business. Powerful interest groups with a stake in the status quo may put up strong opposition. For these reasons, failure to implement reform is often due to challenges faced during implementation, rather than to flaws in the reforms themselves. The purpose of these IQCs is to provide assistance in carrying out reform measures. Success in this area is particularly important for new democracies, where failure to implement policy reform can easily undermine trust in government.

Possible Work Areas: The IQCs are designed to provide assistance to effectively implement policy, legal, and regulatory reform to improve democratic processes. Services provided through the IQCs will apply a strategic management approach that promotes democratic processes in governance. Improving accountability, transparency, and effectiveness are specific priorities. The approach will draw upon proven tools and techniques that reflect

1. The principles and processes of change management from a systems perspective
2. An emphasis on identification, inclusion, and appropriate ownership of host country stakeholders from the public sector and civil society, incorporating capacity building measures that support sustained, meaningful participation
3. A clear focus on integrating management with technical and contextual concerns
4. Facilitation of public/private sector dialogue, conflict management, partnership development and other processes to support effective policy development and implementation

Services are available in three functional areas:

- 1) Strengthening the capacity of national governments, local governments, non-governmental organizations, and community-based groups to effect policy, legal, and regulatory reform, and to improve democratic processes. As appropriate, regional activities will be eligible for support
- 2) Strengthening the capacity of USAID and other donors to assist governments at the national and local levels, non-governmental organizations, and community-based groups to carry out policy, legal, and regulatory reform, and to improve democratic processes
- 3) Providing design, implementation, and assessment expertise to activities that cut across two or more governance programming areas (i.e., deliberative bodies, decentralization, anti-corruption, public reform, and civil military relations)

Services will help address issues critical to facilitating reform, including but not limited to issues related to fitting proposed reforms into a broader strategic framework, involving interest groups in developing policies, clarifying public and private sector roles and responsibilities, building coalitions for change, managing participation, and cross sector linkages.

Eligible services include rapid-response, one time only, and iterative technical assistance and training services, applied research, study tours, conferences/workshops, commodities, and a small grants program to support indigenous NGOs on a limited basis. DCHA/DG has prepositioned funds allowing for the rapid deployment of resources, including qualified technical personnel for reconnaissance, planning and early implementation of assistance activities. Please contact the CTO for further information.

DCHA/DG TECHNICAL PUBLICATION SERIES

Democracy and Governance: A Conceptual Framework - November 1998 (PN-ACR-210)

This publication describes the DG Office's approach to democracy and governance assistance programs. It does so by presenting the strategic thinking underlying the DG Office's and USAID's worldwide involvement in the areas of rule of law, elections and political processes, civil society, and governance. This framework is also meant to set the foundation for other DG Office technical publications exploring specialized democracy and governance sector subject matter.

Alternative Dispute Resolution Practitioners Guide - March 1998 (PN-ACP-335)

This guide is intended to help practitioners make informed decisions with regard to incorporating alternative dispute resolution (ADR) in rule of law programs and other conflict management initiatives. While the primary focus is on the advantages and limitations of introducing ADR within rule of law programs, the guide also discusses how ADR can advance other development objectives.

Civil-military Relations: USAID's Role - July 1998 (PN-ACP-337)

This publication identifies areas in which USAID could contribute to civil-military relations programming, approaching the subject from a civilian vantage point and looking to broaden civil society participation. The report reviews past activities implemented with donor assistance and identifies current issues. Overall, the publication provides a better understanding of the contributions USAID can offer in this important field.

Handbook of Democracy and Governance Program Indicators - August 1998 (PN-ACR-211)

This handbook was prepared to help practitioners develop and manage their democracy and governance programs. It discusses the process of designing a performance monitoring system, offers some guidance on identifying performance indicators, and provides a number of illustrative examples (i.e., candidate indicators) which can be used to develop country-specific indicators for diverse democracy and governance programs. Although the primary audience is USAID democracy and governance officers and the organizations with which they work, the handbook may be of use to other development organizations.

A Handbook on Fighting Corruption - February 1999 (PN-ACR-212)

This handbook presents a framework to assist USAID Missions develop strategic responses to public corruption. The framework sets out root causes of corruption, identifies a range of institutional and societal reforms to address them, and introduces a methodology for selecting these measures. It also describes anti-corruption work carried out by USAID and other organizations.

USAID Political Party Development Assistance - April 1999 (PN-ACR-216)

The document provides a clearer understanding of the substance and breadth of USAID political party development assistance, the statutory and political constraints on such USAID-supported programming, the methods and approaches to political party assistance programming by the key implementing partners (IRI and NDI), and the limitations and possibilities for future political party development assistance around the world.

The Role of Media in Democracy: A Strategic Approach - June 1999 (PN-ACR-214)

This paper presents the four basic steps to developing a strategy for media sector support: defining the problem, finding targets of opportunity, assessing the feasibility of activities, and evaluating USAID's comparative advantage in carrying out these activities. It also outlines a 'menu of options' for media programming which should be chosen on the basis of country context.

Managing Assistance in Support of Political and Electoral Processes - January 2000 (PN-ACR-213)

This publication helps democracy and governance field officers anticipate and effectively deal with the myriad issues and challenges that arise with election assistance programs in changing environments. The practical manual guides users through defining the problem and assessing contextual factors; identifying stakeholders and their motives; selecting options for assistance; linking those options to the mission strategy; and managing electoral assistance. It is suggestive rather than directive, in recognition that, while a certain "conventional wisdom" based on years of experience exists about elections programming, the multitude of variables precludes a "one size fits all" approach. The approaches suggested in this handbook are based on material gathered through a year-long assessment of electoral assistance activities carried out by USAID Missions and their partners over the past eight years.

USAID Handbook on Legislative Strengthening - February 2000 (PN-ACR-215)

The handbook is designed to assist USAID Missions in developing strategies to help legislatures function more effectively and to perform their functions more democratically and representatively. It explains the importance of legislatures in a democracy, describes factors that influence legislative behavior, and enumerates problems legislatures commonly face. It then presents an assessment framework that is designed to help USAID field officers pinpoint the weaknesses and understand the capabilities of their host-country legislatures. The paper identifies a number of assistance activities designed to address weaknesses and to capitalize on strengths discovered in the assessment. It concludes with guidance for implementing legislative programs and a presentation of emerging issues.

Decentralization and Democratic Local Governance Programming Handbook - May 2000 (PN-ACP-339)

This handbook serves as a practical guide to USAID officers who are faced with the task of developing program activities in the areas of decentralization and democratic local governance. Drawing on 15 years of USAID experience in democracy promotion and on four decades of municipal development work, this publication provides a conceptual framework; guidance for choosing successful programming strategies, for selecting entry points and tactics in program design and implementation, and for mission monitoring and evaluation; and a discussion of key lessons learned and future programming issues.

Conducting a DG Assessment: A Framework for Strategy Development - November 2000 (PN-ACP-338)

This handbook provides a framework for constructing donor, in particular USAID, democracy and governance (DG) strategies. It is not a step-by-step manual on how to develop a strategy, but a guide for how to undertake the assessment process that informs the final product. This framework incorporates what researchers and practitioners have learned from comparative experience.

Case Tracking and Management Guide - September 2001 (PN-ACP-336)

This manual provides practical guidance on successful tracking and management (CTM) improvement projects. Using this manual, rule of law officers can make better-informed decisions about CTM system improvement interventions, oversee the design of programs that achieve results, and ensure and plan - to the extent possible - for long-term sustainability that would enable these programs to enhance the rule of law.

Guidance for Promoting Judicial Independence and Impartiality - January 2002 (PN-ACM-007)

The focus of this guide is judicial independence as a means toward achieving the goal of impartial decision-making. Without advocating any specific model of governance arrangement, the issues surrounding judicial independence are presented and guidance is given to USAID and other donors on the design and implementation of programs that effectively strengthen judicial independence.

Approaches to Civic Education: Lessons Learned - June 2002 (PN-ACP-331)

This document reports on lessons learned from a multi-part research investigation into USAID's civic education programming. In order to better understand how and under what conditions civic education contributes to the development of a more active and informed democratic citizenry, USAID initiated the study to measure the impact of both adult and school-based civic education programs on participants' democratic behaviors and attitudes.

DCHA/DG OCCASIONAL PAPERS SERIES

Understanding Representation: Implications for Legislative Strengthening - November 2000 (PN-ACR-217)

This short report presents highlights from the Second International Conference on Legislative Strengthening. It address a number of dominant themes and issues which emerged - either from presenters or from those many conference participants who commented from the floor - in the conference sessions. Accordingly, it discusses (a) how legislatures can better reach out to constituents, civil society, and marginalized groups, (b) the manner in which globalization has influenced legislatures and legislative development, (c) a range of donor and service provider considerations, and (d) alternative approaches to legislative programming.

Participation, Consultation, and Economic Reform in Africa: Economic Fora and the EG-DG Nexus - October 2001 (PN-ACR-218)

This occasional paper examines four economic forum experiments in Africa: the Ugandan National Forum, the National Economic Forum (Ghana), the National Economic Development and Labor Council (South Africa), and the Tripartite Negotiating Forum and the National Economic Consultative Forum in Zimbabwe. Through these four examples, the paper will explore the connections between economic growth and development, and USAID's efforts to pursue those connections.

The Enabling Environment for Free and Independent Media: Contribution to Transparent and Accountable Government- January 2002 (PN-ACN-945)

This document identifies the main components of the legal environment that enable media to advance democratic goals. Interactions between the legal and media sectors significantly shape the degree of professional independence enjoyed by newspapers and broadcasters, allowing media to provide more accurate information to citizens and elites alike. Thus, a basic understanding of the most pertinent laws, enforcement and judicial practices, administrative processes, ownership structures, and other aspects of the enabling environment can help in the design of more effective strategies for developing free media. This, in turn, reinforces more broadly the effectiveness of democratic institutions.

OTHER AGENCY DG PUBLICATIONS

Constituencies for Reform: Strategic Approaches for Donor-Supported Civic Advocacy Programs - March 1996 (PN-ABS-544)

This CDIE-sponsored study analyzes the role of civil society in promoting democratic transitions. It includes information and analysis from civil society assessments conducted in Bangladesh, Chile, El Salvador, Kenya and Thailand. It also evaluates strategies for strengthening civil society and provides guidance in regards to sequencing interventions.

Weighing in on the Scales of Justice: Strategic Approaches for Donor-Supported Rule of Law Programs - April 1994 (PN-ABG-033)

The document draws on assessments of donor-supported rule of law programs in Argentina, Colombia, Honduras, the Philippines, Sri Lanka, and Uruguay. It also presents criteria for gauging whether a country's environment is conducive to rule of law reform and a framework for rule of law strategy design.

Jerry Hyman began serving as director of the DG Office in November 2002. He has a Ph.D. in anthropology and J.D. in law. Jerry taught anthropology, sociology, and economic development at the college level, and also practiced law. He joined USAID in 1990, and founded the DG program in the ENI region. Jerry originally joined the DG Office in 1994, where he served as the leader of the strategies team.

Gail Lecce is the acting deputy director of the DG Office. She has a B.A. from Penn State University in English literature and a J.D. from Harvard Law School. Gail worked for a law firm in Hawaii before joining USAID in the Office of the General Counsel (GC) in 1979. Her USAID career has been split between GC and democracy officer positions. Assignments have included regional legal advisor for Central America (posted in Costa Rica), assistant general counsel for contracts, and head of the democracy offices in El Salvador and Honduras. She most recently served as head of the DG Office's rule of law division.

* * * * *

Adriana Barsotti-Kaplan joined the DG Office as a RSSA from the U.S. Department of Labor.
